Embroidered patches were earlier a handmade product but now they have been digitalized and turned into finer quality with the help of computerized machines. These machines take care of finest details involved in the design being embroidered on the patch as well as provide it clean edges.

Embroidered patches are either manufactured or used in the form of batches that have to be separately attached to the dresses or uniforms or they are directly being stitched to the required piece of clothing. Custom Embroidered Patches offer best quality of both at reasonable prices.

You can also get patches embroidered on your dresses and T-shirts to make your clothes reflect your identity and sense of style. Such patches can also be a good way to make the fancy dress costume of your children more realistic and the best amongst others.

We at Custom Embroidered Patches provide you high quality embroidered patches with no minimum order or any set-up charge. We also provide worldwide shipping of the order assignment without any hassles.
